Currently the Managing Partner at Quetzal Kitchens, Ifat Levine is a widely recognized leader in the interior design world. Her career success is deeply rooted in three fundamental qualities: integrity, consistency and determination.

Levine defines a dynamic woman as one who embodies courage, vulnerability and resilience. She sees such women as leaders who navigate life's complexities with grace and strength, inspiring others through authentic and integrity-driven actions.

"A dynamic woman is not afraid to take risks, embracing challenges as opportunities for growth," she says. "She holds a deep sense of responsibility to make a positive impact, empowering others and driving change with vision and compassion.".

Drawing inspiration from many women, Levine finds her greatest motivation in her personal vision, striving daily to become the best version of herself. She believes that taking professional risks, such as her bold venture into a major design remodeling project without prior experience, has been pivotal in her success. Her journey emphasizes the importance of embracing vulnerability and learning on the go.

"My biggest success came from moving forward despite fear and doubt," she says. "I realized that if I wanted to dive into new opportunities, I needed to start swimming first."

Outside of her professional life, Levine enjoys the natural beauty of San Diego, where she connects with nature through walking, hiking, and sharing quality time with family and friends. Her career in interior design has allowed her to support clients through significant life transitions, fostering a sense of control and belonging in their living spaces.

"Being a part of these pivotal moments has been a true honor and has given me a deeper sense of purpose in serving others," she says.
